Frequently Asked Questions

HOW ARE COMMUNITY EDUCATION & WORKPLACE TRAINING (CEWT) COURSES DEVELOPED?
CEWT Coordinators offer courses that have proven demand in the community. Certain programs are “staples” and are offered semester after semester, while other courses are in response to community interest. All courses must meet a minimum enrolment requirement.

WHY SHOULD I REGISTER EARLY?
CE courses are cost recovery and rely on both local participation and, whenever possible, local instructors. Early registration means that a course will have a much better chance of meeting the minimum enrolment requirements in order to run. The longer you wait to register, the greater the chance of course cancellation. Also, by registering early, you avoid the disappointment of the class being full.

WHAT IS CONTRACT TRAINING?
If you have a specific training need, or our scheduled dates don’t work for you, we can modify, develop and provide training for you via a service contract. We encourage you to talk to us about your requirements.

HOW DO I FIND ALL THE COURSES IN MY AREA?
Visit our website at selkirk.ca/ce or swing by your local campus and pick up a calender. We mail our calenders to all PO Boxes in our region twice a year usually in late August and late December. If you see a course you like on another campus, call your local CEWT coordinator and ask if things can be arranged locally.

Still have questions? Visit selkirk.ca/ce/contact-cewt-team and contact the coordinator in your area.

“I feel it has better prepared me for my work, but even more than that, it has helped me better understand my son.”

"It’s an excellent introduction to Leadership Principles not only for use in your professional career, but also this information can be used in every aspect of your life to help you become a better person."

"The Selkirk College ALP is at par with the Justice Institute Course. It is a course anyone supervising or thinking of going into a management position would find extremely helpful.

This highly interactive program fosters peer to peer learning while still providing flexibility for working professionals. Content is delivered through classroom sessions and through our online learning platform.

Delivered over 4 modules, participants will learn from, and share experience with, a supportive group of like-minded peers from various industries.

Participants will become familiar with current models of leadership and what model works best for them and their organization. A focus on leading self and increasing self-awareness and personal efficacy, builds the foundation for success leading others within their organizations.

On completion of the program, participants will be better able to lead and manage organizational change and understand how strategy and vision will help them to plan for and achieve results. See page 12 for more information.
